Resource Management Plan and Environmental Impact Statement

PUBLIC INVOLVEMENT

5.1 Introduction

This Resource Management Plan (RMP) for the Colorado Canyons National Conservation Area (CCNCA) represents extensive collaboration with and input from interested individuals, organizations, local and state governments, and other federal agencies. The National Environmental Policy Act (NEPA) ensures the public's involvement in the decision-making process, as well as allowing for full environmental disclosure.

Public involvement for the CCNCA RMP is occurring in two phases:

- Public scoping prior to NEPA analysis to obtain public input on issues and proposed alternatives, and
- Public review and comment on the Draft RMP/EIS, which includes analyzing possible environmental impacts and identifying the preferred alternative.

Throughout the scoping and planning process, which officially began in December 2001, the CCNCA Citizen Advisory Council and Working Groups composed of the various user groups met with BLM extensively to discuss resource and management issues, took numerous field trips facilitating better insight into the issues, and then worked together in developing a spectrum of recommendations for resolving the issues.

5.2 Public Scoping Activities

The objectives of public scoping prior to NEPA analysis are to:

- Invite individuals, organizations, local and state governments, and other federal agencies to participate;
- Identify a preliminary list of environmental and socioeconomic issues to address in the NEPA document; and
- Identify and eliminate issues determined to be insignificant.

5.2.1 Notice of Intent

The scoping process for the CCNCA began on December 12, 2001, with publication of the Notice of Intent in the Federal Register. With this, the public was officially notified of the BLM's intent to develop a plan for those BLM-managed lands lying within the CCNCA. This Notice of Intent also solicited public comments.

5.2.4 Public Scoping Meetings

Along with numerous open houses held in communities in close proximity to the planning area, an intensive schedule of meetings, field trips, presentations, event exhibits, and training was maintained throughout the planning process (see Table 5-1). The open houses provided the public with an opportunity to receive information, ask questions, and offer input. All public outreach activities were scheduled with the intent to encourage public participation through extended and/or convenient dates and times. Collaboration, among the diverse individuals and organizations participating in the planning process with the BLM, was strengthened by both one-on-one interactions as well as in group settings. Attendees have had the opportunity to view exhibits and presentations on the CCNCA, covering both general and resource specific items, at various events. Chosen venues, including the BLM conference room and civic and community centers, ensure accessibility for the disabled and also encourage a broader participation through the diverse venue settings. Cooperative agreements have been executed between BLM and several other agencies, including the Department of Natural Resource, Colorado Division of Wildlife, and Bureau of Reclamation. BLM also benefits from working closely with the city of Fruita, Mesa County-Colorado, the National Park Service/Colorado National Monument (COLM), and the BLM Moab Field Office (Utah). Both the COLM and BLM Moab resources share common boundaries with the CCNCA.

5.3 Citizen Advisory Council and Working Groups

In recognition of the local community's historic involvement in public land management, the Act included specific language directing the BLM to incorporate a Citizen's Advisory Council as an integral element in the RMP/EIS planning process and plan implementation. The CCNCA Advisory Council is composed of ten members from the local community, appointed by the Secretary of the Interior (see Table 5-2). The Advisory Council meets monthly, and all meetings are open to the public.

To facilitate the work of the Advisory Council, the CCNCA was divided into four planning zones with Working Groups established for each of the zones (see Figure 1-1 and Table 5-3). These Working Groups do not have a decision-making, voting, or official advisory role, nor are the participants pressured to reach consensus, but the knowledge and input the group members provide proved invaluable to the successful development of this RMP and will continue to do so during the implementation as well. After an intense meeting schedule throughout the planning process, Working Groups meet as necessary to assist the BLM.

The planning zones and representative activities in the CCNCA are:

- (1) The Wilderness Zone – hiking, backpacking, horseback riding, grazing, and hunting.
- (2) The Rabbit Valley Zone – off-highway vehicle (OHV) riding, hiking, Native American rock art viewing, camping, wildlife viewing, mountain bike riding, horseback riding, and grazing.
- (3) The River Corridor Zone – boating, hiking, and camping.
- (4) The Mack Ridge Zone – mountain bike riding and horseback riding.

5.4 Public Review and Comment on the Draft RMP/EIS

Following the initial phase of public scoping, the official public comment period on the CCNCA Draft RMP/EIS opened upon publication of the draft document in October 2003. The BLM, however, welcomes public input at any time during this planning process.

The BLM distributed a postcard notification and inquiry via first-class mail to approximately 450 contacts on the CCNCA mailing list, announcing the availability of the draft RMP/EIS in various media formats. The CCNCA mailing list includes federal, state, and local elected officials, federally recognized tribes, property owners in and near the CCNCA, individuals, special interest groups, and organizations. Availability of the draft RMP/EIS was also announced by publishing notices in local newspapers and the Federal Register, as well as on the project web site (www.co.blm.gov/cocanplan). The Citizen Advisory Council and Working Groups, composed of approximately 120 individuals, were notified by e-mail of the publication of the draft RMP/EIS.

The draft RMP/EIS was provided for public review by bound paper or CD-ROM format upon request, and posted for review or downloading on the project web site. Copies were also available for review at local community libraries.

Along with the monthly Advisory Council meetings in which the public is invited, public open houses were held, from October 2003 to January 2004, during the 90-day public comment period.

- 5.5 Upon conclusion of the public comment period, all comments received were reviewed and considered, and the draft RMP/EIS revised. Once the proposed RMP/Final EIS is published, the document's availability will be announced in the Federal Register. A 30-day public protest period will follow, and any individual considering protesting the proposed plan may meet with the BLM to discuss his or her protest concerns. The BLM Colorado State Director will evaluate and resolve any protests upon closure of the 30-day public protest period. After protests are resolved, the BLM Colorado State Director will publish the approved final RMP and Record of Decision (ROD) and announce its availability in the Federal Register.

5.6 Biological Assessment for U.S. Fish & Wildlife Service Review

In the spring of 2003 the BLM began informal consultation with the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service concerning the CCNCA/RMP. Preparing a Biological Assessment (BA) is a step in the ESA Section 7 consultation process. The BA was drafted and delivered to the Service for preliminary review. Their review resulted in the determination that if Alternative 3 remained the preferred alternative and did not materially change from its form at that time, and no new relevant information changed the situation, no formal consultation would be needed (letter dated May 20, 2003). The Service recommended a half-mile activity restriction around bald eagle nests between November 15 and July 30. They indicated that the southwestern willow flycatcher could be dropped from analysis on the account of Endangered Species Act (ESA). The Service provided the contacts and information helpful in streamlining reviews under the ESA.
